GLASS COMPANY LOSES IN SUIT.

L. J. Houze Is Awarded Full Claim on Four Year Old Note.

THE MILLER CASE SETTLED

Jury Allows Set-off Claim of Defendants and Gives Plaintiff $187.57. Joseph Mervis Defendant In Suit Over a Horse Deal.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 14.—Two verdicts awarded in cases tried yesterday resulted in victories for the plaintiffs in each instance. In the case of L. J. Houze against the Masontown Glass Company the court handed down binding instructions for a verdict for Houze in the sum of $3,415.90, the full amount and interest on his claim for payment of a note issued him July 26, 1907.

In the suit of James A. Miller against George P. Miller and wife, where $276 in loans was asked returned, the jury awarded the plaintiff $187.57, allowing some of the set-offs claimed by the defendants.

In court No. 1 this morning the suit of Arthur McConkey against Joseph Mervis was started. This was an appeal taken by the plaintiff from the decision of Justice of the Peace D. M. Bierer. McConkey claims $125. He sold several horses to Mervis, who took them to Pittsburg and disposed of them to a firm which later went into bankruptcy. Mervis denies the debt, claiming he was merely agent for McConkey and not responsible because the firm he sold the animal to went to the wall.

In court No. 2 the suit of Nick Capozolli against the Johnson Brewing Company was taken up. The plaintiff claims $300 wages due him as a former agent of the company, the defendants alleging they do not owe the debt, but that Capozolli is still in arrears for sales that he made and for which he failed to turn over the money.

School Directors Will Discuss Suit

This evening the members of the Connellsville School Board will meet in the offices of Solicitor R. S. Matthews for the purpose of discussing the suit pending against them in the Federal court by Miss Emma Noyes Brady, who seeks $25,000 balm for the shock her nervous system sustained when the gas got loose in the new High School building last spring.

Attorney Matthews was in Uniontown today and the members profess not to know exactly what will be done at the meeting. Some of them are anxious to know whether the school district is supposed to bear the cost of their junket to Pittsburg, if they have to attend the trial.

The entire 21 members of the board are named individually as defendants in the suit and some of them are a little nervous regarding the outcome.

The meeting will undoubtedly be held behind closed doors.

Marr Funeral Was Delayed

The funeral of the late Frank P. Marr, who died at Salt Lake City, will be held at Manhington, W. Va., today instead of Sunday, as had been arranged. Because connections were missed in Chicago the body did not arrive at Manningron until Sunday evening. Chief Engineer J. L. Fritsch and Claim Agent T. B. Donnelly, West Penn officials who went to Manningtion, did not remain for the funeral but returned to Connellsville yesterday.

Contrary to first reports, Mr. Marr did not die on the operating table. He was operated upon a week ago last Sunday and died on Tuesday.

Died of His Wounds.

Joe Madvine, the Italian who was found lying by the railroad tracks at Republic Sunday night, died at the Uniontown hospital. Pneumonia developed and resulted in his death. It is believed that Madvine was the victim of thugs. Coroner H. J. Bell was called to Uniontown this morning to make an investigation into the death.

No Quorum Present.

Owing to the absence of a quorum there was no meeting of the Lower Tyrone township school board on last Saturday afternoon. The teachers were paid their salary but no other business was transacted. A special meeting of the Board will be held next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hulltown school.

United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Union teamsters are opposing the threat of William H. Ashton, head of the striking street cleaners, today that he will have 20,000 union teamsters in New York strike in sympathy with the street cleaning strikers. The question will be determined late today.

The union men declare that if Ashton attempts to call a sympathy strike they will depose him as as their leader. Many teamsters say the strike of the street cleaners was not justified.

Criminal Court in Westmoreland

November term of criminal court in Westmoreland county opened Monday morning before Judges L. W. Doty and A. D. McConnell at Greensburg. The term promises to be the lightest in several years, as most of the cases are of minor importance. Matthew C. Run, a tailor, of Irwin, was selected foreman of the grand jury. That body commenced work soon after the opening of court and passed upon several bills throughout the day.

The present term is remarkable for the small number of homicide cases. Only four are listed for trial, one of these having been continued from the August term. The homicide defendants are: Wladislaw Michnelouski, who shot his wife and baby at Vandergrift; August Stoehr, Walter Dowe and Joseph Augustine. The homicide cases are listed for next week.

Trust, Not Tariff May Be the Issue

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—It became known today that the Republican leaders plan to shift the battleground of the 1912 election from tariff to enforcement of anti-trust law. Taft will devote most of the space in his message to the anti-trust law, dismissing the tariff by a more recommendation of the tariff board.

Taft claims credit for forcing dissolution of Standard Oil, tobacco and other trusts and will quote speeches of his recent trip to show his position. He is convinced the anti-trust law should be enforced without amendment and his message contains that sentiment. He will recommend the federal incorporation law.

IMMIGRANT GIRL TRULY FEMININE.

She Attempted to Alight Backwards From Train This Morning.

GOT AN AWFUL TUMBLE, TOO

Fortunately Girl was Unhurt and Chattered Her Troubles to Those Who Understood Her Not—Was Bound for New Home at Everson.

Bystanders at the Baltimore & Ohio depot this morning received a scare when they saw a ball of white tumble from an incoming immigrant train and roll along the platform, turning a complete somersault. When the figure straightened itself out it revealed the picture of a rather pretty Slavish girl, who had essayed to leave the train before it came to a stop.

The girl had been in this country just long enough to cultivate the feminine habit of getting off a train backwards, even though she had not assimilated any of the language. Although she landed on her back and gave her head a severe bump, she rose quickly, a trifle dazed, ran to two young ladies standing near, and began telling her troubles in a flow of musical Slavonic language. It was not understood, at all.

Captain E. S. Russell of the Baltimore & Ohio police force hurried to the girl's assistance. He learned that she was bound for Everson and that her companion, who prudently waited until the train stopped before alighting, was bound for South Connellsville.

About a dozen of the immigrants left the train at this point, several of them being women. The train followed No. 3 into the depot and continued westward. It contained only four coaches.

GIRL TELLS JURY OF DULANEY'S LOVE.

Dead Washington Policeman Was a Steady Caller Upon Her.

MISSED FOUR DAYS IN MONTHS

Repeats That She Loved the Dead Chief and Could Not Have Killed Him—"You Ought to Know" She Says of Her Relations With Him.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 14.—The coroner's investigation of Chief Dulaney's death began today. The jury was taken to the Lennox home where a part of the wall was torn down and a .38 calibre bullet found.

A great crowd was present at the inquest.

Miss Lennox and her mother testified regarding walking with a stranger on the evening preceding the tragedy but neither would admit the name of the stranger. The girl expressed deep love for Dulaney and seemed to glory in the fact that he loved her with ardent devotion. She constantly repeated to the jury: "How could I have done the dead when I loved him"

Mrs. Lennox testified that she had known Dulaney for three years. He came to the house on the night of the tragedy. She said she went to bed and Dulaney remained with her daughter downstairs. He had been drinking, she said. Dulaney had seen them with the stranger.

The girl testified that she had known Dulaney since she was 18. She said he had been with her nearly every night, missing but four in the last several months.

"What were your relations with Dulaney?" asked the Coroner.

"Well, you ought to know," she replied.

"Were they improper?" the questioner pursued.

Her attorney objected and no answer was required.

She said that she did not have any other company because she loved Dulaney. Dulaney did not know the name of the stranger. She said the Chief upbraided her and said: "Ada, are you true to me? Do you know what I'm going to do? I'm going to kill you."

Later he said: "I'm not going to kill you, I'm going to kill myself."

She told how she took the gun away from him but later gave it back. He asked her for a cigaret and she got it for him. While she was lying on the floor she said she heard a muffled report and when she looked up she said that Dulaney had shot himself. She then called her mother. She said that Dulaney had threatened her a year ago after she had gone to a dance.

The mother testified that Dulaney was jealous of the girl and had threatened to kill himself before, having forced his gun several times in her house.

YOUTHFUL WIFE HAD A CALLER

Her Indiscretion Discovered Only Because Husband Forgot Specs.

HE CAMPED ON DOORSILL

For Three Hours and Then Called Uniontown's Chief of Police, Who Arrested the Couple—Wife Will Now Leave and Not Contest Divorce.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 14.—The youthful wife of John T. Darby, a grocer of this place, has agreed to leave her husband and not contest divorce proceedings the attorneys are now preparing to enter. The situation was forced upon Mrs. Darby because of the trifling incident of Mr. Darby forgetting his spectacles. He missed them when he went to his store yesterday morning. He returned to the Church street home and found Mrs. Darby locked in her room with another man.

Darby said nothing. He sat on the door step until noon, but the three hour vigil taxed his patience too sorely and he went to the police. Chief of Police McCarthy returned with Darby and forced his way into Mrs. Darby's room. The wife was found, likewise J. T. Garlits, a "medicine man" of Kingwood, W. Va. Both were taken to the lockup.

Garlits was held for court and transferred to the county jail but Mrs. Darby was discharged upon agreeing to leave her husband.

The incident caused considerable comment in Uniontown. Garlits' daughters boarded at the Darby home. One of them was taken ill and Garlits came to see her. The familiarity with Mrs. Darby then resulted.

Appeal is Taken in Shields Case

The case against Sheriff John E. Shields of Westmoreland county has been carried to a higher tribunal. An appeal to the Superior court was taken Monday, the papers for the appeal having been taken out in Pittsburg and filed in the prothonotary's office, in Westmoreland county, late Monday evening. Counsel for Shields went to Philadelphia last night, and there a petition will be presented to a judge of the Superior court asking that the appeal act as a supersedeas and stay execution of the sentence until final disposition of the matter is made by the higher court.

When the supersedeas is allowed it restores Shields to office and gives him the rights and liberties which he enjoyed prior to his sentence of Saturday.

Since Saturday Coroner H. Albert McMurray has served as sheriff, it being the first time in the history of Westmoreland county that a coroner has been called upon to exercise the duties of sheriff. Shields is given the liberty of his residence, which is in one part of the jail building.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 14.—S. J. Shehab, a traveling salesman employed by Shehab Brothers of Pittsburg, was arrested in that city this morning on a forgery charge.

Basketball Games Started Too Early

Discussing the basketball game in town today many expressions were heard that the scheduled games are being called too early. There is a strong sentiment abroad that the games should not begin until 9.15 which is the time games in the Central league are called at Uniontown, Johnstown and the South Side. There are many folks who would like to attend the West Side games, but are not in a position to leave for the hall until 9 o'clock. While there is an early closing hour recognized by most of the merchants in town there are still a number of stores and business house employes who are not able to get away in time to witness a game called at 8.45 o'clock.

Frequently too, there are many transients over night at the hotels in Connellsville who are basketball fans. They in many instances, have business that keeps them tied up too late to get to a game called on the West Side at 8.45 o'clock. Nine—fifteen would suit them nicely. A basketball game called at that time would be over in plenty of time for everyone to get home at a seasonable hour. It is confidently asserted too, that the attendance would be improved considerably as the season advances by making the calling of the games on the West Side at 9.15 sharp.

Alverton Nimrods Get a Big Gobbler

Charles Cunningham and Charles Parry of Alverton have the proud distinction of bagging the first wild turkey gobbler shot in the mountains near Ohiopyle this season. The turkey was also one of the largest shot in the mountains of either Somerset or Fayette counties in several seasons.

Cunningham and Parry have been stopping at the home of Harvey Morrison on Sugar Loaf Mountain. Tramping up Beaver creek valley early one morning last week the two hunters spied a big gobbler greedily feeding in a field nearby. Cunningham got the shot that brought the big fellow down. With a lot of other game the men got in that vicinity they returned to their homes at Alverton on Saturday.

DIVORCES GRANTED.

To Fifteen Unhappily Mated Couples in Westmoreland County.

Fifteen divorces were granted unhappy husbands and wives by the court at Greensburg on Saturday when decrees on various matters were handed down.

Nine of the 15 given divorces were women, while the other six were men who had found life impossible with their wedded mates. The divorces were granted as follows: Celia Stineman from Samuel L. Stineman, Elizabeth Imm from William J. Imm, James C. Peteran from Susie Peterman, George Clem from Maude E. Clem, Lena Mungame from Pasquale Mungame, Pauline Rosso from Guiseppe Rosso, Clara Puncost from Charles Puncost, Ada Gregory from Schuyler Gregory, Ethel Stiffey from Albert Stiffey, George A. Gelston from Elsie E. Gelston, William P. Warriner from Lottie Lea Warriner, Patsy Conti from Cordina Contir, Guiseppe Marino from Elizabeth Marino, Cecelia Howells from Albert Howells, and Emma G. Aaron from Warren Aaron.

Showing that foreigners are fast adopting the customs of the American born people, the 15 divorces reveal four were granted to couples with names that had their origin elsewhere than in the United States.

COLD SNAP HAS MODERATED SOME.

Temperature Under Freezing at 8 O'clock but Began to Rise.

SOME VERY SUDDEN CHANGES

In West Virginia Sunday Mercury Tumbled 30 Degrees in Two Hours. Today Somewhat More Milder Than Was Yestreday in Yough Region.

The backbone of the cold snap has apparently been broken although the temperature continues below the freezing mark, or did this morning when the record was taken at the West Penn, 29 degrees being shown by the thermometer. This was seven degrees higher than last evening at 5 o'clock when 22 was recorded. Yesterday morning the temperature was 14 degrees.

Towards noon the mercury began rising a few degrees and a thaw set in which dislodged the icicles that had formed. These kept up a steady patter throughout the morning as they fell from the high buildings and crashed upon pavements. Some of them were of fair size, and might have inflicted a painful injury had they landed on an unsuspecting cranium.

The day was cloudy and snow threatened. Stories of Sunday's pranks by the weather are being related here and there Chief Engineer J. L. Fritsch of the West Penn is authority for the statement that in West Virginia on Sunday the temperature dropped 30 degrees in two hours. There was almost that sudden a change in this section.

Burgess Evans Trusted James

Burgess Evans extended credit this morning where it is not usually given in police court circles. The recipient of the favor was James Davidson, a Dutch Bottom negro, who pleaded not to be sent behind the bars again for being drunk last night. He admitted he was intoxicated but said the whiskey was given to him.

Davidson told the Burgess he had a sick child at home and didn't want to lose his steady job on the Western Maryland. He left promising to pay the $3.50 on pay day.

Two other prisoners were less fortunate in their appeals and were given 48 hours each.

Firemen Put Out West Side Fire

The fire department was called out yesterday afternoon to a small blaze in the building at No. 301 West Main street, West Side, occupied by Jacob Simon. The blaze was caused by an overheated chimney flue which ignited the wood floor in an upstairs room.

It required little effort to extinguish the blaze and the fire whistle blew a single blast to indicate the fire was out shortly after the wagon arrived. The alarm was turned in from Box 61 about 4.30 P. M.

"Big Business" Again Probed

United Press Telegram

WASHINGTON, Nov 14—The Senate committee on interstate and foreign commerce will resume its investigation of "big business" tomorrow. Senator Cummins said today:

"Whether it will be competition or combination is the question. With competition our aim is to protect it. If combination, regulate it. Business men are complaining that under the present conditions there is danger of business in the country being ruined."

The proposition to amend the anti trust law will be considered, according to Cummins.

BANK OF ENGLAND NOTES.

Always Fresh and Clean as They Are Issued Only Once.

There is as great a difference between the systems of issuing and redeeming the notes of the Bank of England and of the banks of the United States as there is in the appearance of the notes themselves.

The English note is somewhat longer and much broader than ours, is of rough white paper, with ragged edges, and is printed on one side only with a few words and with no pictures or designs, while ours are completely covered on both sides with vignette and lathe work.

Our notes are issued again and again until they become so worn that they are no longer serviceable. A Bank of England note is never issued more than once. Every note that comes in is canceled at once, and then it is stored away with other canceled notes to be preserved for a certain period, when it is destroyed by burning.

It takes many clerks to keep the record of notes issued and paid, and so accurately is this work done that the date when any note was issued, the person receiving it, the time when it was paid into the bank and by whom can be ascertained from the books. If the time was within five years the note itself can be produced.

Many are the stories of attempts to counterfeit these notes, which have always been failures. As the average time between the issue and the payment of the notes is only five or six days the fact that a counterfeit is in circulation is known almost at once, and the system of English bankers and merchants of keeping the numbers of the notes received and paid gives the clew whereby the offender is quickly apprehended.—Exchange.

PAPER MADE BY WASPS.

The Way the Insects Gather Material and Form the Product.

Wasps are wonderful papermakers. They make real paper too, just as truly as human papermakers.

A wasp flies to a flower and covers the front of its body with the dust of the blossom. This is moistened and mixed with the wax which is secreted on the surface of the wasp's body. Then the insect repairs to an old fence or other piece of weather worn wood that has a loose, fuzzy, fibrous surface.

The wasp rubs itself on this fibrous matter just as it did on the dust of the flower, and a layer of such matter adheres to the insect's body and becomes mingled with wax in the same way.

Then away goes the wasp to the nest which it is building, places itself just on the spot where it wants the layer of paper to lie and then works it off into a heat by a furious motion of the wings, so that the wax is moistened next to the body, when the paper drops off in the right place, where it may be adjusted properly and fastened.

The paper of the wasp is as much paper as the product of the paper mill.—Harper's Weekly.

Wedding Rings.

According to the ancient ritual, the husband began by placing the wedding ring upon the bride's thumb and putting it successively on the next two fingers, pronouncing for each one a person of the trinity, with a final "Amen" as the fourth finger was reached, where the ring remained.—New York American.

SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS.

State Police Scour Westmoreland County for Dastards

GREENSBURG, Nov. 14.—(Special.) Headed by Chief of Police Jeffrey Downing and a squad of troopers from the State Constabulary, a posse is searching the wooded hills near here for the three men who kidnaped 12-year old Charles Iozzo from in front of the Hotel Rappe last Friday night.

After a daring escape from an abandoned shanty where he had been bound and gagged and guarded by two of the men, the boy returned to his home yesterday. The boy, with several of his companions, was playing on the sidewalk when a buggy containing three men drove up. One of the men alighted and began talking to the Iozzo boy. Suddenly he snatched the child in his arms and leaped into the buggy and drove away at a gallop. The boy's father is wealthy and the police believe the lad was taken in expectation of obtaining a ransom.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that eats the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Bloc, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

How Kaffirs Treat Children.

All travelers and magistrates testify to the unbounded kindness to children shown by the Kaffirs in their own kraals. Such a thing as a deserted Kaffir child is unknown, and the elder people put up with all the little annoyances of children with exemplary good humor. Actual cruelty to Kaffir children is practically unknown. — Diamond Field Advertiser.

THE SOISSON.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Tonight.

The survival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the dawn of the twentieth century is something to marvel over, but it is an assured fact. The elaborate renovation of the old play by Manager Washburn of the Stetson company in a new pictorial dress with up to date methods plentifully displayed throughout its half a dozen acts, judging from box office receipts, wherever this company plays, furnishes ample proof that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is still potent. Special scenery for every scene depicted, enlarged choruses of genuine negroes from the cotton belt, modern up to date specialties, two male and female quartettes, a bank of Alabama pickaninies, a gorgeous cakewalk in pretty setting entitled "The Palace of Silver Hat," improved light effects and mechanical illusions will be seen in the Stetson production of this famous play. The presenting company in some instances is a double one and contains the names of numerous footlight favorites. The street parade is said to be the longest, richest and best ever given by a theatrical company. The Stetson company will appear at the Soisson this afternoon and tonight.

Lyman Howe's Travel Pictures.

At the moment that the raised arm of Lincoln Beachey, seated in his aeroplane, drops, the audience at the Soisson tomorrow night will start on a fascinating and wonderful ride via Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival. It is the signal for the "deck hands" to "let go." Simultaneously the engines begin to purr and the next sensation is that of flight across the grass at the rate of what seems to be a thousand miles a minute. The vibration of the engines, and the thrills of speeding through the free air, afford a delight so keen, so unadulterated and so mysterious, that it defies analysis. As you are lifted ever higher and higher, the world seems to disappear beneath you and the terrific speed of which you were so conscious at the start seems lessened, though in fact it is greater. That means that you are infected with the aviator's disease —over-confidence. Then you begin to wonder whether you are traveling on the face of the wind or simply hanging in the air as though on an inflated cushion, but you are suddenly awakened from your reverie by that weird volplaning dart back to earth.

Other noteworthy scenes of Mr. Howe's new program are an exclusive reproduction of the coronation of George V including the ceremonies, pageants, festivities, illuminations and a close view of peers and peeresses.

"The Wolf."

Eugene Walter's most successful play "The Wolf," which will be presented at the Soisson Friday, Nov. 17, is said to be an absorbing virile play of griping interest. The story is one of the Canadian backwoods and is a vivid portrayal of life in that hard land of snow and hardship and howling wolves. It revives the old plot of the man scheming for an innocent girl's downfall, but it has nothing that is sordid about it. Virtue triumphs and true manhood and womanhood have the audience's sympathy. There might be made the assertion that the story is melodramatic, but for that matter, so is every tragedy that Shakespeare wrote. There is a thrilling climax at the end of the piece, and there are tense situations throughout, but they make the play the more stirring.

TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 14, 1911.

EMBYRONIC CITIES AND INFANT BOROUGHS.

It has been discovered that the new borough of South Connellsville may not, under the Act of June 19, 1911, organize its borough government until the first Monday in January, 1912, although its School Board will organize under the School Code the first Monday in December, 1911. In this connection The News imparts the following interesting information:

Under the Act of June 19, Connellsville Council will be included among the number that will reorganize on January 1. What is proposed by the Republican organization has not been made known. There is the possibility that James B. Millard will be retained in the presidential chair, a seat he is not overanxious to hold. It is rumored another attempt will be made to unseat Solicitor J. Kirk Renner. It is also understood District Attorney elect S. Ray Shelby will tender his resignation. The election in January will be somewhat more interesting than former ones for the reason that the officers then elected will hold their offices for two years, or until the third-class city government goes into effect in December, 1914.

The News forgets that Connellsville has been declared by the highest legal tribunal in Pennsylvania to be an Embyronic City temporarily under borough government by the accident of the law. The status of the Embyronic City is plainly defined in the Act of June 21, 1911, approved two days after the act above quoted. It declares that "the charters of said towns and boroughs," that is boroughs which have voted to become cities of the third class and have received their city charters, "shall continue in full force and operation and ALL OFFICERS UNDER THE SAME SHALL HOLD THEIR RESPECTIVE OFFICES UNTIL THE FIRST MONDAY OF DECEMBER, IN THE FIRST ODD-NUMBERED YEAR NEXT SUCCEEDING THE ISSUING OF THE LETTERS PATENT," WHICH YEAR THE COURTS HAVE DECIDED IS 1913.

There is no question concerning the position of South Connellsville. It is a new borough which has just elected its officers. The law simply appoints a new time for the organization of its government. Connellsville is in a different class. It is an Embyronic City. It is a city de jure and a borough de facto. It is in a state of chrysalis. The law says it shall remain in statu quo until it finally emerges from its caterpillarian borough state into the brilliant butterfly form of a full fledged third class city. In the meantime, the law commands that "ALL" the borough officers shall "HOLD THEIR RESPECTIVE OFFICES."

The President and Clerk of the Town Council, the Borough Treasurer and the Borough Solicitors, and every officer elected or appointed for a given term, HAS THAT TERM EXTENDED BY THE OPERATION OF THIS LAW UNTIL THE FIRST MONDAY OF DECEMBER, 1913, BUT NOT LONGER.

The Town Council of the Embyronic City of Connellsville is already organized. It is not necessary for it to organize again. It is not in the position of a borough which has elected new members of Town Council to take the places of others whose terms have expired, nor of new boroughs like South Connellsville, whose Town Councils have not been organized at all.

Furthermore, it is evident that the Town Council of the Embyronic City of Connellsville has no right to reorganize under the Act of June 19, 1911, and elect the several officers mentioned above TO SERVE UNTIL THE FIRST MONDAY OF JANUARY, 1914, because the other and later enactment governing boroughs in our present position provides that THE THIRD CLASS CITY OFFICERS ELECTED IN NOVEMBER 1911 SHALL ENTER UPON THEIR RESPECTIVE TERMS OF OFFICE ON THE FIRST MONDAY OF DECEMBER OF THAT YEAR.

It seems plain that the Embyronic City of Connellsville is not governed at this particular time by the same law that governs the Infant Borough of South Connellsville.

New York is threatened with pestilence because of a garbage drivers' strike. This is dirty and dangerous business.

WINTER WEATHER AND THE GAS SUPPLY.

The year 1911 has kept up its reputation for freakish weather by rushing us from balmy spring to bitter winter within twenty-four hours. Such sudden changes are very trying to the health of children and delicate persons, and not even the older and harder ones escape altogether all the time.

To add to the discomfort of the occasion, the natural gas supply was short. The gas company should make an earnest effort to protect its customers from this serious annoyance if not actual menace. The company is under a moral, and we believe a legal obligation, to the consuming public when it collects thirty cents gross per thousand feet for its service to furnish, as the water company obligates itself to do concerning its water supply, "a constant and sufficient supply," accidents and causes beyond its control excepted.

We were, however, due to have winter weather ere this, and perhaps we cannot complain now that it has come, but most people would prefer that Old Winter come in a dignified and proper manner befitting his reputed age and chilly manners, and not butt in like an excited and overheated bull who sees a red rag in the distance.

In view of the acknowledged fact that not even the Weather Works can regulate the weather, there's no use repining. We will have to bear it, and we might as well grin while doing so. In the meantime, we trust the gas man will not again permit us to shiver while we grin.

THE B. & O. SAFETY MOVEMENT.

The Baltimore & Ohio management has inaugurated a commendable movement looking toward the safeguarding of employes and the public. It is proposed to have a systematic supervision of the tracks, shops and equipment of the railroad, to the end that any defects may be brought to light and remedied.

There is reason to think that many recent wrecks on railroad lines generally have been due to indifferent track conditions. Recently four disastrous wrecks happening within a few weeks were traced to spreading rails. While it is possible for rails to spread on a well-maintained track, it is always a fair inference that the track is not up to standard, and there is a suspicion that some railroads have economized in the wrong place.

We will hope that the Baltimore & Ohio safety movement will result in safe tracks as well as safe shops and equipment. Given a first-class track properly and rigidly maintained, and railroad wrecks will be reduced to a minimum.

Connellsville cannot take on city government for two years, but in the meantime it will take on metropolitan airs. It is proposed to put on a night sergeant at the City Hall. The proposition is very sensible. There should be somebody on duty there all night so that telephone calls for police assistance may be communicated promptly. A night sergeant will be a material expansion of Connellsville's police protection. Such an officer will be worth many times more than he will cost provided, of course, he attends strictly to his duties.

There may be Tariff agitation 'n plenty in the coming Congress, but there is not likely to be any Tariff legislation. Perhaps it is the knowledge of this foregone fact that is chirking up the iron and steel and coke business.

SHOT IN THIGH BY A DUMP CART.

Scottdale Man the Victim of Peculiar Accident This Morning.

W. O. KELLY HIT BY THE BULLET

It Was Fired by a Passing Dump Cart. The Stork Keeps Ahead of the Grim Reaper About Scottdale During the Month.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Nov. 14.—W. O. Kelly, partner of Joseph McCullough, in the plastering business was shot in the leg this morning with a 32-caliber cartridge, the weapon used in firing the shot being a dump cart. It was the most peculiar accident about here for a long time and illustrates the danger of a gun even without a lock, stock or barrel. Kelly was standing at Broadway and Pittsburg street this morning about 8 o'clock, when suddenly there was the sound of a gunshot. Kelly seized his right thigh in both hands and jumped in pain. Those about thought he had been shot with a revolver which he was perhaps carrying. But the shot did not come from any revolver. The dump cart from the pipe mill was passing along the street and the flash of flame and the report came from one of the wheels. The cartwheel had passed over a 32-calibre cartridge lying in the middle of the street and the pressure of the wheel had discharged the cartridge. Kelly was bruised, but not seriously hurt.

Just how the cartridge happened to be left lying on the street is a mystery. Anyway it proved that it is a dangerous thing to have any of the elements of war lying around loose.

Registrar's Statistics.

The Registrar of Vital Statistics for Scottdale borough and East Huntingdon township in his report for October gives the following figures: Scottdale had 11 births during the month, while the deaths amounted to five. Out in East Huntingdon township the births were 19 and the deaths were eight, the stork being in the lead in both sections.

Damage Extensive.

The blizzard and cold wave that struck this section on Sunday accomplished a good deal of damage, in freezing various things. Many of the farmers and others who had pumpkins, apples or potatoes without enough covering or had them outdoors altogether and did not give them protection wakened on Monday morning to find that a lot of freezing and damage had followed their carelessness. The weather has not moderated any by this morning and does not look much as if it will anyways soon.

On Jury Duty.

John Ritchie, William Miller, Tax Collector S. B. McMillan, Thomas Gallentine are serving their county by doing jury service at Greensburg this week. The criminal court is now well under way.

Coal Dealers Active.

The last couple of days have made the coal dealers active and the wagons are running all over town, filling orders, many of them that have been in for several weeks. There seems to have been a slowness in shipments with some of the dealers.

Brown October Ale

can trace its ancestry very far back

To the gentlemen in powdered curls and plumed hats the alehouse was what the club is today. There they went for their "morning draught" (in lieu of breakfast); there they talked politics at night. They drank ale at home, too. One of these worthies writes in his diary: "Home . . to a game at cards, supper, some apples and ale, and to bed with great pleasure, blessed be!"

That was nearly three hundred years ago, and ale is still the best-esteemed beverage of this season of the year

MISS MINERVA and WILLIAM GREEN HILL

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

(Copyright, by Reilly & Britton Co.)

"There's Jimmy whistling for you," said Miss Cecilia. "How do you two boys make that peculiar whistle? I would recognize it anywhere."

"Is he ever kiss you yet?" asked the child.

"I heard that you and Jimmy whipped Ed Brown because he imitated your own particular whistle. Did you?"

"How many times is he kiss you?" asked Billy.

The young girl put her arm around him and tried to nestle his little body against her own.

"I'm too big, anyway, for your real sweetheart," she said. "Why, by the time you are large enough to marry I should be an old maid. You must have Frances or Lina for your sweetheart."

"An' let you have Maurice!" he sneered.

She stopped to lay her flushed cheek against his own.

"Honey," she softly said, "Maurice and I are going to be married soon; I love him very much and I want you to love him too."

He pushed her roughly from him.

"An' you jes' 'ceived me all the time," he cried, "an' me a-lovin' you better'n anybody I ever see sence I's born? An' you a Sunday-school teacher? I ain't never a-goin' to trus' nobody no mo'. Good-by, Miss Cecilia."

She caught his hand and held it fast. "I want you and Jimmy to be my little pages at the wedding, and wear dear little white satin suits all trimmed with gold braid"—she tried to be enthusiastic and arouse his interest; "and Lina and Frances can be little flower-girls and we'll have such a beautiful wedding."

"Jimmy an' Lina an' Frances can be all the pages an' flower-girls an' brides an' grooms they wants to, but you can't rope me in," he scornfully replied. "I's done with you an' I ain't never goin' to have me no' sweetheart long 's I live."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Closer Than a Brother.

It was a bad, rainy day. Jimmy and Billy were playing in Sarah Jane's cabin, she, however, being in happy ignorance of the fact. Her large stays, worn to the preaching the night before, were hanging on the back of a chair.

"Ain't I glad I don't have to wear no corset when I puts on long pants?" remarked Billy, pointing to the article. "Ain't that a big one? It's twice 's big 's Aunt Minerva's."

"My mamma wears a big co'set, too," said Jimmy; "I like fat womans 'nother sight better 'n lean ones. Miss Minerva's 'bout the skinniest woman they is; when I get married I'm going to pick me out the fattest wife I can find, so when you set in her lap at night for her to rock you to sleep you'll have a soft place to put your head, while she sings to you."

"The major—he's mos' plump enough for two," said Billy, taking down the stays and trying to hook them around him.

"It sho' is big," he said; "I berlieve it's big 'nough to go 'round both of us."

"Le's see if 't ain't," was the other boy's ready suggestion.

He stood behind Billy and they put the stays around both little bodies, while, with much squeezing and giggling, Billy hooked them safely up the front. The boys got in front of Sarah Jane's one looking-glass and danced about laughing with glee.

"We're like the twinses what was growed together like mamma read me 'bout," declared the younger child.

Presently they began to feel uncomfortable, especially Jimmy, whose fat, round little middle was tightly compressed.

"Here, unhook this thing, Billy, and le's take her off," he said. "I'm 'bout to pop open."

"All right," agreed his companion.

He tugged and pulled, but could get only the top and bottom hooks unclasped; the middle ones refused to budge.

"I can't get these-here hooks to come loose," Billy said.

Jimmy put his short, fat arms around him and tried his hand, but with no better success. The stays were such a snug fit that the hooks seemed glued.

"We sho' is in a fix," said Billy gloomily; "look like God all time lettin' us git in trouble."

"You think of more fool stunts to do, William Hill, than any boy they is," cried the other; "you all time want to get us hooked up in Sarah Jane's corset and you all time can't get nobody loose. What you want to get us hooked up in this thing for?"

"You done it yo'self," defended the boy in front with rising passion. "Squeeze in, Jimmy; we jes' boun' to git outer this 'fore somebody finds it out."

He backed the other child close to the wall and pressed so hard against him that Jimmy screamed aloud and began to pound him on the head with his chubby fists.

Billy would not submit tamely to any such treatment. He reached his hand behind him and gave the smaller boy's cheek a merciless pinch. The fight was on. The two little boys, laced up tightly as they were in a stout pair of stays, pinched and scratched, and kicked and jerked. Suddenly Billy, leaning heavily against Jimmy, threw him flat on his back and fell on top of him.

Bennie Dick, sitting on the floor, had up to this time watched the proceedings with an interested eye; now, thinking murder was being committed, he opened his big, red mouth and emitted a howl that could be heard half a mile. It immediately brought his mother to the open door. When she saw the children squirming on the floor in her only corset, her indignation knew no bounds.

"You, Jimmy Garner, an' you, too, William Hill, yuh little imps o' Satan, what you doin' in my house? Didn't yo' mammy tell you not to tamper wid me no mo'? Git up an' come here an' lemme git my co'set off o' yuh." Angry as she was, she could not keep from laughing at the sight they presented, as, with no gentle hand, she unclasped the hooks and released their imprisoned bodies.

"Billy all time—" began Jimmy.

"Billy all time nothin'," said Sarah Jane, "'tain't no use fo' to try to lay dis-here co'set business onto Billy; both o' yuh is skally in it. An' me a-aimin' fo' to go to three fun'els dis week an' a baptizin' on Sunday. S'pose y' all 'd bruck one o' de splints, how'd I look a-presidin' at a fun'el 'thout nare co'set on, an' me shape' like what I is?"

"Who's dead, Sarah Jane?" asked Jimmy, hoping to stem the torrent of her wrath.

"Sis' Mary Ellen's las' husban', Brudder Littlejohn—dat' a-who," she replied, somewhat mollified at his interest.

"When did he die?"—Jimmy pursued his advantage.

"He got 'way f'om here 'bout moondown las' night," she replied, losing sight of her grievance in his flattering interrogations. "You know Sis' Littlejohn, she been married goin' on five times. Dis-here 'll make fo' gen'lemans she done buriet an' dey ain't nobody can manage a fun'el like she kin; 'pears like hit jes come natchel to her. She sho' is done a good part by eb'ry single husban' too, an' she 's figgerin' to outdo all the futhers wid Brudder Littlejohn's co'pse." Sarah Jane almost forgot her little audience in her intense absorption of her subject. "She say to me dis mornin', she say, 'Marri'ge am a lott'ry, Sis Beddinfiel', but I sho' is drawed some han'some prizes.' She got 'em all laid out side by side in de buryin' groun' wid er little imige on ebry grabe; an' Sis Mary Ellen, seein' as she can't read de writin' on de tombstones, she got a diff'unt little animal a-settin' on eb'ry head res' so's she kin tell which husban' am which. Her fus' husban' were all time a-huntin', so she got a little white marble pa'tridge a-restin' on he' head, an' hit am a mighty consolement to a po' widda 'oman fo' to know dat she can tell de very minute her eyes light on er grabe which husban' hit am. Her secon' man he got er mighty kinky, woolly head an' he mighty meek, so she got a little white lamb a-settin' on he grabe; an' de nex' husban' he did n't have nothin' much fo' to disgueese him f'om de res' 'cep'in' he so slow an' she might nigh rack her brain off, twell she happen to think 'bout him bein' a Hardshell Baptis' an' so powerful slow, so she jest got a little tarrapin an' sot it on him. Hit sho' am a pretty sight jes' to go in dat buryin' groun' an' look at 'em all, side by side; an' now she got Brudder Littlejohn to add to de res'. He de onliest one what's got er patch o' whiskers so she gwine to put a little white cat on he' grabe. Yes, Lord, ef anythink could pearten' a widda 'oman hit would be jes' to know dat yuh could go to de grabeyard any time yuh want to an' look at dat han'some c'llection an' tell 'zactly which am which."

Sarah Jane stopped for breath and Billy hastened to inquire:

"Who else is dead, Sarah Jane?"

"Tain't nobody else dead, yit, as I knows on, but my two cousins is turrible low; one 's got a hemrage on de lung an' de yuther 's got a congestin' on de brain, an' I 'lows day 'll bofe drap off 'twix' now an' sunup tomorra." Her eyes rolled around and happened to light on her corset. She at once returned to her grievance.

"An' shosin' I had n't 'av' came in here when I did? I'd 'a' had to went to my own cousins' fun'el 'thout nare co'set. Y' all gotta go right to y' all's mamas an' Miss Minerva dis very minute. I low dey 'll settle yo' hashes. Don't y' all know dat Larroes ketch meddlers?"

CHAPTER XIX.

Twins and a Sissy.

Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Black were sitting on Miss Minerva's veranda talking to her, and Lina and Frances were in the swing with Billy. The attraction proved too great for Jimmy; he impolitely left a disconsolate little visitor sitting on his own porch while he jumped the fence and joined the other children.

"Don't you all wish you could see Mrs. Brown's new twinses?" was his greeting as he took his seat by Billy.

"Where 'd she got 'em?", asked Frances.

"Doctor Sanford tooken 'em to her last night."

"He muster found 'em in a holler stump," remarked Billy. "I knows, 'cause that 's where Doctor Shacklefoot finds aller ol' Aunt Blue-Gum Tempy's Peruny Pearline's, an' me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln been lookin' in ev'y holler stump we see ever sence we's born, an' we ain't never foun' no baby 't all, 'cause can't nobody but jes' doctors fin' 'em. I wish he 'd a-give 'em to Aunt Minerva 'stidder Mrs. Brown."

"I wish he 'd bringed 'em to my mama," said Frances.

"I certainly do think he might have given them to us," declared Lina, "and I 'm going to tell him so, too. As much money as father has paid him for doctor's bills and as much old, mean medicine as I have taken just to 'commodate him; then he gives babies to everybody but us."

"I 'm awful glad he never give 'em to my mama," said Jimmy, "'cause I never could had no more fun; they'd be struck right under my nose all time, and all time put their mouth in everything you want to do, and all time meddling. You can't fool me 'bout twinses. But I wish I could see 'em! They so weakly they got to be hatched in a ningubator."

"What 's that?" questioned Frances.

"That 's a someping what you hatches chickens and babies in when they's delicate and ain't got 'nough breath and ain't got they eyes open and ain't got no feathers on," explained Jimmy.

Games Tonight.
Connellsville at Johnstown.
Charleroi at South Side.

The Cokers inaugurated the Central league basketball season at home last night with an easy 67-22 victory over Charleroi. The new basketball hall was crowded with an attendance that broke all previous local marks and which was as enthusiastic as could be desired. The general verdict in favor of the Coker team and the new hall was mighty favorable. There are improvements to be made, but the inaugural was a rattling success.

The game was preceded by a parade headed by the Tenth Regiment Band and nine automobiles, which carried the players, officials of the club and visitors. The parade was a frost—that is, the participants were about frosted by the time they reached the hall. The pace set by the band would have been all right for the Hallowe'en parade, but it kept the automobile drivers in a stew to go so slow. However, the game was what the fans wanted, and they got it.

There is no denying the contest was one-sided, but that does not say that Charleroi can be relegated to the bottom right at the jump. As a matter of fact it was the first time Jacky Adams and his men had been together in a cage this season. The Cherubs were in poor condition and were given more timeouts than the law allows, but Captain Dark believed it best policy to play the game fair. The Cokers won principally because of their superior physical condition. The Coker team is in the pink of condition although two of them were slightly injured last evening. Doherty had his eye gashed while Dark received a jab in the eye from Jacky Adams. Dark's accident happened after the full quota of eight men had been used and he was forced to play the game out.

Dolin and Jimmy Brown were in bad shape, physically, all through the second half, but they were game and stuck to the finish. Right here it might be said that no man in the league has more pluck than this little fellow. Brown deserves all the praise that can be heaped upon an opponent and if hard work and lots of grit will bring results, Jimmy should be a star.

There isn't much to say about the game except that the Cokers won in a walk and Joe Cavanaugh scored a hit with the fans. There is no question about the popularity of the other regulars, but Cavanaugh is new. He took from the start, and, incidentally put up a bang-up game. Billy Kummer starred. He was in the game just 29 minutes and proved himself the Billy of old, except on the foul line. Neither Adams nor Kummer displayed much form on the free line.

The game was replete with brilliant plays. Kummer negotiated several but probably the feature of the game was Beggs' dribble the entire length of the hall and then his toss. He made the 50th point for the Cokers and on a play that excited admiration. Captain Dark played splendidly, looking out all the time to help his men along, even at the expense of his own record. Lee Egolf and Herron got in good work as guards while Steve White put up a nifty game as a forward in Kummer's place. White's distance shots were features.

In the first half Charleroi failed to score a field goal. Adams tossed six of his 13 fouls, the half ending 34 to 6 in favor of the Cokers. Thirty-two of these points were made with 16 field goals, as Kummer could only land two of his six foul tries. Kummer led the half with seven field goals. The Cokers came within one of scoring as many points in the last half as the first.

The second half lacked interest, although Charleroi came to life about midway when Jimmy Brown, Dolin and Allie Brown dropped the ball through the net in rapid succession. Just before the finish the visitors duplicated the feat, Adams making a foul try, Dolin getting his second field goal and Jimmy Brown scoring Charleroi's last point in the same manner. Charleroi was allowed four times out in this period, and needed every one. At the close of the game Dolin and J. Brown were in bad shape. The men on both sides were so nearly fagged in the second half that only seven fouls were called altogether. The lineup:

Connellsville (67)	Charleroi (22)
Kummer	left forward	J. Brown
Cavanaugh	center	Dolin
Beggs	right guard	Pelfer
Doherty	left guard	A. Brown

Substitutions—Herron (22) for Doherty (18); Egolf (11) for Beggs (20); White (11) for Kummer (20).

Field goals—Kummer 9, Cavanaugh 5, Beggs 4, Doherty 4, White 4, Dark 3, Herron 1, Egolf 1, J. Brown 2, Dolin 2, A. Brown 2, Adams 1.

Foul goals—Kummer 4 out of 8; Dark 1 out of 1; Adams 8 out of 17.

Referee—Davis.
Timers—Munroe and Riggs.
Attendance—1,000.

Notes of the Inaugural.

Referee Davis made his first appearance in Connellsville and performed well.

Captain Kid Dark made a play in the first half that every fan saw and appreciated. He was close to the basket and set for a sure shot when he saw Cavanaugh under the net. Instead of shooting he passed to Joe, who made the point. No player in the league passes as often and effectively as Dark, or thinks less of his personal record.

Three of Steve White's field goals were difficult shots. Looks as if Steve is determined to "come back."

The score at Uniontown does not indicate that the Champs have gone back this year.

Every Coker figured in the scoring. Doherty made the first score in the new hall—in a league contest—Adams throwing the first foul.

Lee Egolf is looking better this year than ever. He played a neat game even if J. Brown did out-score him. Herron also played well, holding Adams even. With White, Egolf and Herron in reserve the Cokers are well fortified for substitutes.

The hall was cold but the management promises it will be more comfortable once the exposed foundation is boarded up. It was that which made the floor so chilly. Partitions are to be erected in front of the entrance doors to break the wintry gales that sneak past the doorkeeper.

The official scorer and newspaper men are using a new style score book which has been designed by George S. Connell, sporting editor of The Courier. It is an improvement over the style used last season.

H. L. Mitchell, now located in Pittsburg, came up to see the opening game and Kirk Renner's new baby.

That record of 67 points is apt to stay for a game or two. It is nearly a high water mark for the league.

"Plugger" Doherty looked ferocious the few minutes he played with blood streaming down from a cut over his eye. Later Kid Dark got Adams' fingers in one optic and had to finish the game with impaired vison. It didn't affect the Kid's play.

"Bush" Beggs made some pretty shots and played a brilliant game throughout. Friends predict this will be the best season Beggs has enjoyed and the start he made indicates it.

Billy Kummer was right there in mid-season form. He will begin delivering the goods from the foul line before the week is out, or else something has slipped a cog. What Billy missed from the free line he made up on field goals. Some of his shots were dangerous and difficult.

Cavanaugh never quits. He played the game right from the start and didn't let up. Dolin was in distress during the first half because his wind was bad.

The Cokers left this afternoon for Johnstown. They will meet the rejuvenated Jawns this evening, then rest until Friday when Fogarty's crew comes here. The fourth game of the week will be played at Charleroi Saturday night.

The maroon jerseys looked strange. Maroon and white is the color scheme Charleroi has maroon jerseys also, but they have a broad white streak around them.

The crowd in the new hall last night was a representative one. Scattered throughout it were prominent citizens, merchants, bankers, physicians, lawyers and other professional men. Everyone in town was at the game last night, it seemed, and many prominent citizens from nearby towns in the Yough region were noted in the audience. The large attendance of ladies was pleasing to the management. There is every reason to believe that a most successful season is ahead for the Connellsville Athletic Association and that a winter's fine sport will be the fans' reward for the liberal support they will give.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Has All Been Arranged For This Month.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Nov. 14.—County Superintendent of Schools Daniel W. Seibert today announced the program for the fifty-fourth annual sessions of the Somerset County Teaches' Institute, which will be held in the Somerset opera house, commencing on Monday afternoon, November 27, at 1 o'clock, and closing on Friday morning, December 1, at 11.30 o'clock.

This will be the first institute at which teachers will receive extra compensation, the new School Code providing remuneration at the rate of $3 per day. Heretofore, teachers received only their regular salaries for institute week, the same as all other weeks of their respective school terms. The code also provides that any teacher absenting himself without a sufficient reason will be obliged to pay a forfeit of $3 per day. It is likely that no forfeits will be levied as Somerset county teachers have always showed a splendid attendance even when there was no extra salary, the proceedings of the institutes offering apparent advantages to all instructors present from the various districts that the sessions of the annual gathering have always been looked forward to as a rare treat by the teaching fraternity.

Prof. Seibert is president of the institute association and all the supervising principals of the county are vice presidents. Following are the other officers: Secretaries, William G. Miller and E. G. Rhoads; enrolling Clerk, M. R. Schreck; Time Clerks, Charles E. Koontz, W. L. Shaulis and Lewis S. Knopper. Following are the committees for the fifty-fourth institute Professional Literature, B. T. Frazee, Ernest Kerb, J. M. Custer, P. P. Williamson and Earle McClintock. Resolutions, S. M. Smyser, Harry A. Speicher, W. W. Lantz, Charles C. Ringer and M. T. Miller. Necrology, P. W Shaffer, Harvey Emert and K. L. Young.
